Managed Floating Plus Morris Goldstein, 2002 In this analysis Morris Goldstein examines currency regime choices for emerging economies that are heavily involved with private capital markets The author argues that the best regime choice for such economies would be managed floating plus where plus is shorthand for a framework that includes inflation targeting and aggressive measures to discourage currency mismatching Goldstein argues that if managed floating were enhanced in this way it would retain the desirable features of a flexible rate regime while addressing the nominal anchor and balance sheet problems that have historically underpinned a fear of floating and handicapped the performance of managed floating in emerging economies The author also shows why managed floating plus is superior to four alternative currency regime options an adjustable peg system a BBC basket band crawl regime a currency board and dollarization The Supply-side Revolution United States. these great economists prove to be fabulous story tellers of their lives and times Unendingly gripping for insiders this book should also help non specialists understand how economists think Professor Julio Rotemberg Harvard University Business School and Editor Review of Economics and Statistics Economics used to be called the dismal science It will be impossible for anybody to hold that view anymore This is science with flesh and blood and a lot of fascinating stories that you will find nowhere else Dr Jean Pascal B nassy Paris Jourdan Sciences économiques Paris France This book provides a rare and intriguing view of the personal and professional lives of leading economists It is like A Beautiful Mind scaled by a factor of 16 the number of interviews in the book Professor Lee Ohanian University of California at Los Angeles if you want an insider view of how economics has been developing in the last decades this is the only book for you Professor Giancarlo Gandolfo University of Rome La Sapienza Rome Here we see the HUMAN side of path breaking research the personalities and pitfalls the DRAMA behind the science Professor Francis X Diebold University of Pennsylvania Philadelphia Overlapping Generations Stephen E. Spear, Warren Young, 2023-09-04 The 800 pound gorilla in the room of macroeconomics is the question of why the overlapping generations model didn't become the central workhorse model for macroeconomics as opposed to the neoclassical growth model The authors here explore the co evolution of the two models Social Security Bulletin, 1979 Confidence, Credibility and Macroeconomic Policy Farrokh Langdana, 2003-09-02 The results of macroeconomic policy are often unpredictable One of the major reasons for this is the importance of confidence and expectations in economic affairs Confidence Credibility and Macroeconomic Policy explores this interaction between confidence and expectations and the credibility of the government's financial policies The volume is divided into three parts An overview of the inter relationship between fiscal policy credibility and inflation Empirical research on the importance of public confidence and expectations to the success of fiscal and monetary policy The definition and functions of consumer confidence as it is measured today Confidence Credibility and Macroeconomic Policy will be an invaluable guide for all those interested in macroeconomic policy Economic and Natural Disasters since 1900 John Singleton, 2016-03-25 A crisis is a period of uncertainty that may or may not lead to disaster depending in part on the capacity of actors to make sense of what is happening and respond effectively Disasters in different spheres occur and recur at different speeds and in idiosyncratic ways but in essence they follow the same pattern In the wake of the Global Financial Crisis and Eurozone upheavals this timely book argues that the disaster cycle a framework normally used in the context of natural disasters is equally applicable to the analysis of other types of catastrophe Employing a modified version of the disaster cycle framework to compare and analyse a range of catastrophes in different spheres the author draws on ideas from a variety of disciplines including economics and economic history disaster studies management and political science This unique comparative approach presents case studies of several important disasters Hurricane Katrina the First World War the depression of the early 1930s Welsh coal mining accidents the deadly effects of smoking tobacco and the Global Financial Crisis and Eurozone

Euro Error Jean-Jacques Rosa, 1999 Does Europe still have a choice Do we still have a choice The Euro was eagerly adopted by governments the media and sometimes even by European citizens They promised us less unemployment and more freedom But the outcome was not so certain It was high time for an economist independent minded and free from special interests to sound the alarm Jean Jacques Rosa denounces the creation of the European single currency as the most serious error made since the deflationist policy of the 1920s which turned the 1929 stock market crash into a decade of tragedy In coming to this judgement Jean Jacques Rosa applies logic the truths of everyday existence human experience and statistical proof Isn't the Euro then really just the political desire to melt the European nations into one state But wouldn't the right size for today's nations be infinitely more modest Starting with the formation of the common market at the end of the 1950s intended to restore the free exchange of goods services men and capital after the wave of protectionism and isolationism of the depression years and the war the European leadership elites have gone on to erecting a plan for a monetary and thus a political Europe that of a very great State and a single State Otherwise they suggest we will be relegated to decline and impotence and finally to obliteration Not to want Europe unified statist and monetarist would be not to want Europe as if the latter could admit only that one definition only that one design A typical example of politically correct thinking Against the trend of intellectual conformity the timidity of the elites and the knee jerk approbation of Franco German integration Jean Jacques Rosa often polemical suggests it's time we exited from this impasse from our European error This book was originally published by Editions Grasset and Fasquelle in 1998 It is translated from French by Andrea Secara
